

BEFORE THE PUBLIC UTILITY COMMISSION OF OREGON

UM 1302

Investigation into the Treatment of CO2
Risk in the Integrated Resource
Process (IRP)

Petition to Intervene of the
Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon

The Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon (EMO) hereby petitions to intervene in the above-referenced proceeding pursuant to OAR 860-13-021. In support of this petition, EMO asserts the following:

- A) EMO's business address is : 0245 SW Bancroft, Suite B, Portland, OR 97239
- B) EMO waives paper service and will be represented by EMO's Oregon Interfaith Global Warming Campaign (OIGWC) Steering Committee member James Edelson who is designated for service of all documents at:

James Edelson
415 NE Mirimar, Portland, OR 98232
edelson8@comcast.net, Phone: 503.231.4665

Copy should also be sent to Jenny Holmes, EMO Environmental Ministries Director at inec@emoregon.org.

- C) EMO is a private, non-profit 501-C3 organization registered in the State of Oregon. Its mission is "to bring together Oregon's diverse faith community for dialogue, advocacy and community ministries in service to God's people and creation." The OIGWC was started by EMO in 2000 to provide in Oregon an interfaith religious voice to the moral dimensions of global warming and to inform the policy debates. OIGWC and its sister program, Oregon Interfaith Power and Light (OIPL) have educated, counseled, and advocated with over 250 congregations distributed in all geographic regions of Oregon. EMO, OIGWC and OIPL have been engaged in many energy and climate governmental forums in Oregon and in Washington D.C. to advocate for policies do not exacerbate the warming of the Earth's atmosphere and that support clean energy development and energy efficiency.

The method by which CO2 risk is incorporated into the IRP Process directly impacts our members' interests and the mission of our organization. Our participation will not unduly add to the breadth or extent of the proceeding. For this and for the reasons stated above, EMO hereby requests to intervene in this matter.

Dated this 15th day of March, 2007.

Respectfully Submitted,

David Leslie, Executive Director
Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon
