UM 1129Northwest and Intermountain Power Producers Coalition*Paragraph 10(e) Information*William A. Monsen, Laura B. Norin, and Julia Getchell

Description William A. Monsen's Consulting Practice:

Since 1989, Mr. Monsen has been at MRW, where he leads MRW's technical and economic analysis practice. His clients include independent power producers, electric and natural gas consumers, regulators, and financial institutions. He has provided extensive analyses on electric power markets, rate forecasts, and analysis of rate options for his clients. He has provided expert witness testimony in numerous California regulatory proceedings concerning utility resource planning, the market structure of the electric power market, the cost-effectiveness of new resource additions, electric resource planning, power pricing for QF projects, the need for power, marginal cost analysis, electric and natural gas revenue allocation and rate design, and California regulatory policies. He has analyzed power markets in the western US, China, Korea, Wisconsin, and Massachusetts for independent power producers, financial institutions, and customers.

Description of Laura B. Norin's Consulting Practice:

Since 2004, Ms. Norin has been at MRW, where she specializes in integrating quantitative analysis of market dynamics with an in-depth understanding of regulatory structures and policies to advise clients on a wide range of energy issues. She serves as an expert witness in regulatory proceedings, conducts financial and other technical assessments, and develops wholesale energy price and retail rate forecasts. She is a lead author of several publications related to nuclear power, natural gas storage, and solar power markets in California. Recent projects include expert testimony on behalf of a consumer advocate and a municipal entity in California utility rate cases; regulatory representation for agricultural parties related to California's emerging greenhouse gas cap-and-trade program; technical support for testimony on utility resource planning; and a technical assessment of the greenhouse gas implications of a planned municipalization. Ms. Norin has also conducted policy analyses for the California Energy Commission and other public entities and financial assessments of the market value of renewable power assets.

Description of Julia Getchell's Consulting Practice:

Ms. Getchell is a new Associate with MRW. Ms. Getchell provides project assistance through a variety of research and analytical activities. For example, she regularly reviews regulatory filings and discovery responses, researches issues pertaining to renewable and conventional energy, and assists in the preparation of expert testimony.
