Re: Docket No. LC 74 – Idaho Power Company’s 2019 Integrated Resource Plan
 (“IRP”) – Procedural Schedule

Dear Filing Center:

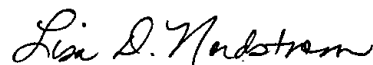

On July 19, 2019, Idaho Power Company (“Idaho Power” or “Company”) filed a letter with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission (“Commission”) providing notice that the Company had identified the need to perform supplemental analysis to confirm the accuracy of the IRP’s conclusions and findings. At that time, Idaho Power anticipated that the required supplemental analysis would be completed—and filed for Commission and party review following consultation with its IRP Advisory Council—by October 31, 2019.

After further assessment of the required analysis and necessary time to consult with the IRP Advisory Council, the Company has determined that it will need additional time to complete these necessary steps, and will provide the Commission with a new estimated filing date no later than November 8, 2019. While Idaho Power is sensitive to any delay in the filing of the supplemental IRP analysis, the Company believes this additional time is necessary to fully vet the work currently underway and involve the public in a meaningful way.

As stated in Idaho Power’s prior letter, the Company believes that the supplemental analysis is required to ensure the accuracy of the IRP’s findings, and will result in a sound basis for the Company’s continued resource planning efforts.

Very truly yours,
