Witnesses said Rudolph then punched Sapp in the face, knocking him to the ground.

REGION

SEVENTH-HEAVEN: Portland's flag is considered one of the best in the nation, according to the North American Vexillological Association.

Portland city flag ranked 7th best in the country

The Associated Press According to the city's Web site, the green symbolizes Oregon's forests. The intersecting vertical and horizontal blue stripes represent the Columbia and Willamette Rivers, with the central white star signifying Portland at their confluence.

The yellow stripes represent the harvest of grain because Portland is a wheat exporter. The city of Salem finished 51st on the association's list. Washington D.C. was judged to have the best flag and Poastello, Idaho, the worst.

A recent survey ranked Portland's city flag as the seventh best in the country. The North American Vexillological Association, which studies flags, ranked 150 flags and states that the best designs are simple, distinctive, use meaningful symbolism and have no writing or seals.

The Portland flag is an offset cross of blue, white and gold stripes. A star is located just left on center, and it's all on a green background.

Retired fishing boats set sail to serve science

COOS BAY (AP) — Do put the value of his fishing boat into words, Scott Hockema speaks of hard years — years spent at sea hauling fish from the depths to support a wife and two sons, years spent repairing engines and gear and building a trustworthiness crew years fighting to make a living while the larger fishery faltered.

"I gave up quite a bit, when I gave up that thing," the Coos Bay fisherman says. "My life's work for 12 years."

Hockema's boat, the 84-foot Pacific Storm, is one of 91 vessels retired last year from fishing over again in a federal buyout meant to prop up the overfished, struggling trawl fishery.

Now the Pacific Storm and two other retired fishing boats are getting a second life worthy of their hardworking past. Henceforth they will travel the Pacific Ocean on voyages of scientific exploration and marine conservation.

Hockema and two other owners have donated or pledged their vessels to Oregon State University, a gift that has stunned researchers.

"It allows us to consider things we'd never thought possible," says Bruce Mate, a professor and director of the marine mammal commute back and forth every day between Half Moon Bay and distant waters. Now they can use the big, seaworthy boat as a mother ship for their smaller, whale-chasing boats, staying at sea for weeks.

With the new fleet, Oregon State University scientists are talking about research voyages north to Arctic waters challenged by global warming, to poorly understood whale not spots hundreds of miles off the coast of Mexico, and south to a zone of rich upwelling off Costa Rica.

These are vessels hardened for fierce weather, powered by giant diesel engines and generators, and able to carry 10,000 gallons of fuel and nearly as much water. Hockema — who learned the fishing trade as a boy aboard his grandfather's boat and who served as captain on his first boat at age 17 — hates to think of his trustworthily Pacific Storm stripped of its fishing identity. He retired another boat and sold it to someone who is converting it into a pleasure yacht.

"They cut all the masts off. It doesn't even look like a fishing boat anymore," he says.

"I caught as much fish as any one on the coast," says the 39-year-old. "Everybody knew what that boat was."

But, in a single meeting, Mate persuaded Hockema to donate the Storm. Keeping the boat working meant a lot to him. So did the prospect of having it stay on the Oregon coast, where he could still see it once in a while.

Not to mention, he says, "just the fact that it still kind of looks like a fishing boat."

Jurors swayed by Peterson's lack of emotion

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (KFF) — Scott Lee Peterson was stoic and apparently emotionless. He was the smiling defendant in a capital murder trial. He was a swaggering man, who easily strolled into court each day.

And after more than six months of trial, Peterson's laissez-faire attitude was his own undoing, said jurors who condemned him on Monday.

"For me, a big part of it was at the end, the verdict," juror No. 7 Michelle Nica, 34, of Palo Alto said flatly. "No emotion, no emotion. No anything. That spoke volumes. Loud and clear."

"I heard enough from him" Speaking publicly for the first time, three jurors in the Peterson trial talked at length at a news conference Monday about the evidence, their feelings and why they time. During trial, Peterson seemed disconnected from the severity of his situation. He smiled at his family, joked with his lawyers and easily chatted with deputies charged with guarding him.

All the while, jurors were watching. "I still would have liked to see, I don't know if remorse is the right word, a little more expression or caring," Cardosi said. "If he was innocent — he lost his wife and child and it didn't seem to faze him."

JURORS ANSWERED dozens of questions from print and broadcast journalists.

The hour-long session took on the aura of a television talk show with media pool director Peter Shepley acting as host.

It's all aboard as man, 94, gets his first tattoo

DaBOIS, Pa. (AP) — Ralph Bonebreak was born to be wild — in 1910.

"Tattooing an older person is a bit more difficult because their skin is different and sometimes it comes away from the muscle a little," said Bob MacCreedy, a tattoo artist at Tainted Flesh.

A lot of men who went into the military got tattoos, but Bonebreak's 58-year career with the railroad kept him out of the service, said his friend, Eno Camuso.

"He's always wanted a tattoo, but back then the only place you could get one was at the county fair," Camuso said this week. "They weren't very clean."

Bonebreak selected a train to commemorate his time with the railroad. A belt buckle inspired his eagle design.

Bonebreak might have been nervous, but he didn't show it when he hopped in the chair.

"It's a new experience so I'd say I was a little anxious," Bonebreak said.

Rice to replace Powell as nation's top diplomat

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Bush turned to his most trusted foreign policy adviser, Condoleezza Rice, to lead U.S. diplomacy during his second term, replacing Secretary of State Colin Powell, who often was out of step with more hawkish members of the administration's national security team.

Mohamed Alhazami, had informed the newspaper of his plans early Monday. He told The Post by fax and telephone that he was "going to burn my body at unexpected place." He also faxed a letter to an FBI agent in New York who has had contact with him, the Post reported. The paper said it alerted the New York agent about its contact with Alhazami and subsequently informed District of Columbia police when it learned from the man in a series of three telephone calls that he could not travel to Yemen to visit his ailing wife, who has stomach cancer. He also said the FBI had not kept promises it made to him to secure his assistance.

The investigation into Monday's incident is being handled jointly by the Secret Service and the U.S. Park Police, which has jurisdiction over Pennsylvania Avenue immediately outside the White House fence. That section of Pennsylvania Avenue was recently reopened to pedestrians after being closed for security.

Briefly Reid to lead Senate Democratic caucus

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats are changing management, their ranks reduced to a 74-year low and their longtime leader defeated for re-election back home.

Sen. Harry Reid, a soft-spoken Nevada, is moving in as leader of the shrunken minority, while Sen. Tom Daschle of South Dakota is expected to

A low-fat diet "continues to be the key characteristic" of long-term success, said Suzanne Phelan, a Brown University Medical School psychologist who led the work. Consumers increasingly are losing their enthusiasm for Atkins-style diets as a long-term weight control strategy and the following such a diet peaked at 9 percent last February and fell to 6 percent by June.

Disturbing trend continues for Stanfield, stay winless

By the Hermiston Herald

CONDON — There is a disturbing trend for the Stanfield High boys basketball team.

The Tigers had managed to stay close for the first 30 minutes in each of their first five games. But it's that last two minutes that has not been very kind.

The Tigers have not executed late and it happened again Saturday night.

Stanfield (0-5) turned the ball over six of its final nine possessions in a 50-41 loss to Damascus Christian in the consolation game of a tournament in Condon.

"We just couldn't put the ball in the basket," Stanfield coach Nate Williams said. "It's frustrating."

Stanfield did not help itself out at the free throw line, making just 12-of-23. For the season, Stanfield is only 49 percent as a team.

Jason Flemmer led the shorthanded Tigers with 14 points. Stanfield is still without freshman Sam Grogan who is still nursing a muscle strain.

Matt Ellis gave the Tigers a boost in Grogan's absence with seven points.

On Friday night, Stanfield could not overcome a slow start in a 47-46 loss to Condon.

A late basket cut the game to two points, but the Tigers would not get the ball back.

Condon raced out to a 29-19 halftime lead against a flat Tiger team. "We did not come out with any energy in the first half," Williams said.

A 18-11 fourth-quarter run was not enough for Stanfield, which managed to tie the game once in the second half. Kyle Sobotta led the way with 21 points and Chad Blackburn added 11 points and eight rebounds.

Flemmer finished with 10 points. The Tigers played at Mac-Pi Monday night and results were not available at press time.

On Friday, Stanfield opens conference play at home against Weston-McEwen at 7:30 p.m.

The Falcons capitalized on some poor free throw shooting in the second quarter to take a nine-point lead at halftime. Hermiston went 0-of-5 from the stripe during that span.

"I was pretty excited," Usher said. "The kids came out and played well."

GOP's Rossi: Governor-elect, but not governor-for-sure

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—Republican Dino Rossi is being certified as Washington's governor-elect, but the closest gubernatorial race in state history is far from over.

After a machine recount, only 42 votes separated Rossi and Democrat Christine Gregoire.

On Friday, Democrats are expected to request a hand recount of all or part of the 2.8 million ballots, and the Republicans may weigh in as well. The uncertainty could last until Christmas.

Some are even worrying about whether a winner will be known in time for inauguration on Jan. 12. Incumbent Gov. Gary Locke, a Democrat, did not stand for a third term.

Secretary of State Sam Reed, the state's chief elections officer, planned to certify the machine recount today, making Rossi the official governor-elect.

Rossi scheduled a post-certification news conference today to declare victory yet again and to urge Gregoire to concede. He also planned a "Thank You, Washington" rally this evening at the Bellevue Doubletree Hotel to celebrate his "victories."

Gregoire, a three-term attorney general, had been forecast to win with ease and John Kerry and Sen. Patty Murray easily won for the Democrats here. But Rossi, a self-made real estate millionaire and a former state legislative power, edged Gregoire in both the regular count — by 261 votes — and in the automatic machine recount completed last Wednesday.

Each candidate polled 48.87 percent and each got 1.3724 million votes. "Right now, the state is divided smack down the middle," Gregoire's spokesman, Morton Brilliant, said Monday. "If all the ballots aren't counted, we will go through the next four years with one candidate's supporters not believing the winner was legitimately elected."

"It's worth taking three (more) weeks to have four years of legitimacy, and that's what is at stake."

Democrats planned to ask for an unprecedented hand recount of all or part of the state's 6,886 precincts, said Kirstin Brost, state party spokeswoman. "There's a long list of counties where ballot numbers don't match up — where ballots either materialized or ballots evaporated. There may be perfectly reasonable explanations, but it needs to be explored," she said in an interview. In the state's largest county, King, which includes heavily Democratic Seattle, last week's recount included more than 800 previously unrecorded ballots, nearly tripling the election to Gregoire.

There is reason to believe Gregoire may win the third count. Brilliant said in an interview. Brost agreed, but also acknowledged "all of this is a gamble."

Democrats would prefer to order a complete hand recount, but the party may not be able to raise $1 million by Friday, Brost said. A labor-intensive manual recount costs 25 cents per ballot, or about $700,000 for a statewide tally.

Coupled with legal bills and party staff costs, that could push the total cost to more than $1 million, and both the Gregoire campaign and the state party are running on fumes, Brost said.

The Democratic Governors' Association, Emily's List and the Democratic National Committee are expected to provide financial help.

The party may decide to order a recount for King County or counties where they've spotted possible "anomalies," said state Chairman Paul Berent.

Marijuana patients seek new physicians

EUGENE (AP) — Dr. Phillip Leveque's medical career highlighted by a short but storied medical marijuana practice, is probably over.

The state has pulled the license of the 81-year-old osteopath from Molalla, and the nearly 4,000 patients for whom he has signed medical marijuana applications are looking for replacements.

"For sure, there have been other doctors to step up to the plate, but not enough," said Todd Daloto, president of the Compassion Center in Eugene. "Clearly there is a problem with getting enough doctors to sign for patients."

The center and such advocacy groups as Voter Power and the Hemp and Cannabis Foundation in Portland and the Alternative Medicine Outreach Program in Roseburg are holding clinics at which doctors examine patients and sign applications.

As of Oct. 1, 1,498 doctors had signed applications for 9,758 patients, according to the state Oregon Medical Marijuana Program.

Dr. Leveque did nearly half that many himself in five years. Work spread fast when Oregon's medical marijuana law took effect in 1999 that Leveque was the man to see.

Sometimes he signed applications for far-flung or disabled patients without meeting them. This drew the attention of the Board of Medical Examiners, which in May 2002 suspended his license for 90 days, fined him $5,000 and placed him on 10 years probation.

Leveque resumed his practice, working with the advocacy groups and signing applications after a physical exam of patients by a nurse-practitioner.

HERMISTON—The Super Bowl of Comedy is back bigger and better than ever showcasing two nights of stand-up comedy. Last year, Warren Smith, organizer of the Hermiston event, added a second night to the annual benefit show. Due to the success of the show, the Super Bowl of Comedy will once again offer two nights of comics emceed by Rob Sherwood.

... that was the first of his projects at Hanford, Wash. She resumed her career in the telephone industry for the Oregon-Washington Telephone Company in Grandview, Wash., as an operator on a line switchboard located in a small room of the Grandview Herald building. She transferred to the Sunny-side office when the company upgraded to pushbutton switchboards. After several years as an operator she returned to Grandview as the manager of the business office.

In 1966 Hazel married Carl Sutherland and they moved to Hood River, where she remained with the company, then United Telephone Company, now Sprint, until her retirement in 1972. Hazel loved plants and flowers and her retirement years were spent tending to many bulbs inside and outside the home. She progressed with it until a loss of eyesight.

'Do what you can where you are with what you have'

By KIRBY NEWMANN-REA

Scripture, sagacity, or a pinch of silliness. Those are some of the approaches Hood River Valley churches used in their change-the-renter-horror-throughout-2004.

Some seemed familiar, while others broke new ground. In a year of roadside outreach that continues to stand the test of time.

Whether solemn or humorous, the sayings posted by pastors and lay people humbly express the churches' beliefs and missions.

Here is this year's listing from the past year.

Assembly of God
The future is as bright as God's promise.

God's faithfulness dispels our heartfulness.

The best way to face Christ the judge is to know him as your Savior.

A mother understands what a child does not say.

God's trustfulness turns hardships into triumphs.

The best thing to spend on your children is time.

The best cure for greed is generosity.

When the treasure's out, there's nothing left.

The warmth of love can melt the heart of an enemy.

Church of Christ
Make His plans your plans for the New Year.

The Bible is most effective when open.

Your cause may be vivid but keep your heart warm.

Hosanna! Three: God's greeting card.

Service is the rent we pay for human earth.

Be not at ease where you are until what you have

Sunny spirits make even the darkest skies sunny.

If you pause to think, you'll have cause to thank.

How would Jesus Drive?

We can't change the wind but we can alter the angle of the sails.

Was it the apple in the tree or the pair on the ground?

Example is the language anyone can read.

Laughter, hugs and smiles are good to give or receive.

The church is God's gift; assembly required.

The holiday is over but giving thanks shouldn't be.

Jucker Road Baptist Church
Who is your King?

God's gift to the family is a precious inheritance.

The Lord reigns. Let the world rejoice.

God cared enough to send His very best.

Give thanks to God and praise Him.

Praise God from whom all blessings flow.

God Bless America. Remember to vote Nov. 2nd.

In everything, it is good to give thanks.

— Psalms 137:1

Mountain View Baptist Church
In Christ, God came to dwell in man so that man may dwell in God.

Be humble or you'll stumble.

Good Christians make good citizens.

Jesus is the only final answer.

Salvation is not giving up something. It is receiving someone.

Sanctification requires consecration without reservation.

Parkdale Church of the Nazarene
Let The Lord Jesus Give You New Life for the New Year.

The Passion of Christ: That You and I Might Gain Life Through His Sacrifice.

God gives a special grace for each trial we face.

God speaks through his word to those who listen with their hearts.

Try our Sundays: They are better than Baskin Robbins.

To give meaning to Christmas give Christ first place.

Riverside Community Church
Fatherhood, Jesus Style: The forgiving and inclusive father.

God is still speaking.

White Salmon Christian Assembly
Jesus offers you strength for today, hope for tomorrow, life everlasting. Details inside.

Help wanted for M.L. King bash

By ANDREA BARKAN
Pilot Staff Writer

AmeriCorps member Katie Miller is planning a royal community celebration for Jan. 17, Martin Luther King Jr. Day, and needs help from residents to roll out the red carpet.

"King for a Day" will feature art and poetry inspired by King, as well as a reading of King's speeches, from 1 to 4 p.m. Jan. 17 at The Snug in the Brian Scott Gallery.

As an AmeriCorps member, Miller was charged with creating a public event around one of three national service days: Earth Day, Make a Difference Day or Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

Miller, who runs the ASPIRE program at Brookings-Harbor High School, said she chose the latter because Brookings is an ethnically homogenous community.

Katie Miller is planning a celebration honoring M.L. King.

Land acquisition allows Lewis and Clark trail work

ASTORIA (AP) — The National Conservation Fund has taken over more than 900 acres from Weyerhaeuser for a trail from Fort Clatsop, where the Lewis and Clark expedition wintered, to Sunset Beach.

The transfer will allow major work to begin on the six-mile Fort-to-Sea Trail. The rolling, forested land is the largest property acquisition yet for the new Lewis and Clark National and State Historical Parks and the largest along the route of the Lewis and Clark Trail.

"This is a huge milestone," said park superintendent Chip Jenkins. With federal funding in the park's expansion in the past year, the trail is part of your yard. Fertilize Trail work will begin in March, Jenkins said. For more information, visit www.nps.gov/lecl or e-mail holc@nps.gov.

Miller said she wants "to focus on his words and his work and the importance of nonviolence."

She plans to work with BHHS students in English and art classes on special projects for the event.

Students will have the chance to write found poetry, where they rearrange words from portions of King's speeches.

All art and poetry created around the civil rights leader and his message will be displayed at the gallery.

Miller desperately needs participation, though, to make the event successful.

"I would really like that community involvement," she said. She requests anyone wanting to take part tell her in advance.

Miller may be reached by calling (541) 469-2108, ext. 241 or by emailing katiem@brookings.k12.or.us.

Those happy paydays when the hawk soars high, the successes that help to balance the 3 a.m. feedings, are Colton admits, "few and far between."

And even after 14 years of sacrificing her time and her money and sometimes even her blood to save animals (raccoon claws are as sharp as an owl's talons), every one she loses hurts her just as deep in the marrow as the first one did.

"I thought I'd get used to it, putting down animals," Colton said. "I didn't."

"I tell them it's like you are ground your bedroom forever," Colton said. "You can see outside but you can never go out. Birds are used to flying, being free."

Colton has devoted hundreds of hours and thousands of tears to ailing animals since she was a little girl, who rescued her first mouse from a hayfield at cutting time.

That was on the Madras farm where Colton, who's 39, grew up.

Colton's male dachshund, Blue. "They ran all over the house," Shelta Colton said. "First she would chase the dog, then the dog would chase her."

Of course Colton could blame herself, at least in part, for the hijinks - she, after all, fed Ally the milk (from a baby's bottle) that replenished her energy between those rambunctious games of chase.

One day Colton came home and there on a kitchen counter sat the raccoon, looking as

Home-schoolers face new standardized testing

BEND (AP) — A state plan to crack down on school districts that receive money for home schooling could require hundreds of students to take a standardized test.

The Oregon Department of Education policy change will require home-schooled students to take the Oregon Statewide Assessment test if they receive tutoring or take special classes in reading and literature, math or science paid by public schools.

Children schooled at home already must take a national standardized test in third, fifth, eighth and 10th grades.

But the federal No Child Left Behind Act has put added pressure on the state to test all students who benefit from public-education funding, said Cliff Brush, an education specialist for the state.

No Child Left Behind grades schools based on how many of their students take assessment tests, as well as how they perform on the tests, he said. Some districts are already testing home-schooled students, but others, particularly smaller districts in rural areas, often do not, Brush said.

Education officials are touring the state to explain the new policy and determine how many districts are following the law. A report is due by the end of the year, Brush said. State officials, including Brush, met with Sisters School District Superintendent Ted Thon-to tighten that up."

Kristi French, who home-schools her son Jacob, 14 and daughter Daniella, 11, said taking the state assessment test would be an unwelcome burden. Both children take classes through the Sisters School District. Home-schooling allows her children to learn a variety of subjects at their own pace, rather than absorbing information that will let them pass a test, French said.

"I have friends who test their kids every year just because they want to know where they are compared to other kids," said French who used to be a substitute teacher. "I've taught enough middle school and elementary school to be able to tell where my kids are."

Record jackpot is unclaimed

SALEM (AP) — Check your pockets. All of 'em.

Somewhere in those deep recesses, amid the lint and loose change, may well be the biggest Megabucks payoff in the history of the drawing. Nobody has claimed the $30 million prize.

It's been two weeks since the six winning numbers turned up on a ticket sold in Milwaukie.

Typically, big winners wait to come forward until they get their legal and financial houses in order, said lottery spokesman Chuck Baumann. However, "it could be sitting on somebody's dashboard or dresser," Baumann said, "or, who knows, in a worst case it could be in a landfill."

The winning numbers for the Nov. 15 draw were 7, 16, 21, 22, 24, 43. The winner has one year to claim the prize, either in 25 annual installments of $804,000 or in a lump sum of $10.05 million, both options after taxes.

In the 19-year history of Megabucks, two jackpots have gone unclaimed one for $1 million in 1997 and another for $1.4 million in 2002. Before the Nov. 15 drawing, the record prize was for $23 million in 1991.

Lack of snowfall hurting some ski resorts

WILLAMETTE PASS (AP) — Oregon ski operators say it wouldn't take much snow to get their areas up and running this winter.

But they don't have much. A late snowfall has delayed openings at many ski areas that usually are operating by Thanksgiving.

At Mount Bachelor, resort operators are urging skiers to do a "snow dance," and at Hoodoo Ski Area, lift operators burned some old skis to try to fire up the snow gods. At Willamette Pass there is only a patchy three-inch shred of snow across the base area.

"I try to be a realist," said Willamette's mountain manager

Ray Gardner. "I try to get up every morning and deal with what Mother Nature gives me, and her and I have some arguments."

Willamette Pass and Hoodoo remain closed, and Mount Bachelor is operating with 17-inches of mostly artificial snow at the base area. Mount Ashland has less than half of the two to three feet they say they need to open.

There is some skiing at Timberline Lodge and Anthony Lakes. Spout Springs and Mount Hood Meadows hope to open in early December. A wetter than average August, September and October looked promising, but a cold, dry November kept snow back, said state climatologist George Taylor.

At Hoodoo, ski lift operator Steve forced operators to cancel a planned snow machine or snowfall simulation. Hoodoo doesn't think artificial snow will help.

"One thing people need to remember is the best snow is at the end of the season," Shepard said. "Last year, we had new snow piling into May."

Abbas calls for end to Palestinian uprising

JERUSALEM (AP) — The armed uprising against Israel is a mistake and must end, interim Palestinian leader Mahmoud Abbas said in an interview published today, signaling his determination to change direction after Yasser Arafat's death. Palestinian militants have enjoyed broad support among Palestinians during more than four years of conflict with Israel. Abbas' affirmation of a somewhat unpopular view comes at the height of his campaign for Palestinian Authority president. Abbas is the frontrunner in the Jan. 9 election to succeed Arafat as Palestinian Authority president. Abbas, a pragmatist, has the support of Israel and the international community.

White Arafat was still in view. Abbas told associates in closed-door meetings that he felt the uprising was a mistake, but rarely spoke out in public. When Abbas criticized the armed uprising during the launch of the U.S.-backed "road map" peace plan in 2003, he drew sharp condemnation at home. In an interview with the London-based Arabic newspaper Asharq al-Awsat, published Tuesday, Abbas said Palestinians should resist Israeli occupation without resorting to violence. It is important to "keep the uprising away from arms because the people to express their rejection of the occupation by popular and social means," Abbas said. "Using the weapons was harmful and has got to stop," Abbas said, referring to shootings and bombings by Palestinian militants that have killed hundreds of Israelis and caused the deaths of many more.

Abbas said the violence must end before peace talks can resume. On Monday, Israeli Defense Minister Shaul Mofaz said that if the Palestinians work to quell the violence, Israel could coordinate its planned withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and four West Bank settlements with the militant Islamic groups, Hamas and Islamic Jihad, to bring them into the framework of the PLO, an umbrella group for Palestinians with the new Palestinian leadership.

Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon refused to negotiate with Arafat, accusing him of fomenting violence. Israel is keeping its distance from Abbas ahead of the election, not wanting to hurt his chances. Mofaz also said that if the Palestinians reorganize their security services, Israel would be willing to give them control over large areas of Gaza and parts of the West Bank before the pullout.

But Abbas said that currently Palestinian security is in a state of chaos. "Frankly, the Palestinian (security) apparatus needs discipline. There is security chaos, that's why we're demanding and are seeking to unify the security apparatus," Abbas told Asharq al-Awsat. Abbas also said he was in talks with the militant Islamic groups, Hamas and Islamic Jihad, to bring them into the framework of the PLO, an umbrella group for Palestinians with the new Palestinian leadership.

However, Abbas' efforts to persuade the militants to halt attacks on Israelis in the run-up to the vote suffered a setback Sunday when Hamas and a Fatah offshoot dug a tunnel under an Israeli post on the Gaza-Egypt border, blowing it up and killing five Israeli soldiers. Militants in Gaza have also fired repeated barrages of rockets and mortars at Jewish settlements in the last week.

Israel's response has been muted. The military apparently fears that a large-scale operation could jeopardize the Palestinian elections with the blame laid at Israel's door. Israel has continued targeting militants with smaller raids and military officials said today that Mofaz ordered the army to step up its targeted attacks against Palestinians responsible for digging the tunnels, which are also used to smuggle weapons into Gaza.

Eight prisoners have died in U.S. custody in Afghanistan

By John J. Lumpkin
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Military officials said Monday that eight prisoner deaths in Afghanistan have been investigated since mid-2002, a higher number than previously reported. Human Rights Watch said slow-paced investigations had "spawned a culture of impunity" that may have fueled prisoner abuse in Iraq.

"It's time for the United States to come clean about crimes committed by U.S. forces in Afghanistan," said Brad Adams, the group's Asia division director.

Failure to prosecute incidents in Afghanistan has allowed abusive interrogation techniques to spread to Iraq, Adams said. "The U.S. government is dragging its feet on these investigations," he said.

A Pentagon spokesman, Lt. Col. John Skinner, said commanders go to "enormous lengths to investigate any credible allegations of detainee abuse." Many death investigations have determined that detainees died due to natural causes or because of injuries suffered before their capture, he said.

He added that the military has examined its entire system of keeping enemy prisoners. "We've looked at detention operations from A to Z," he said.

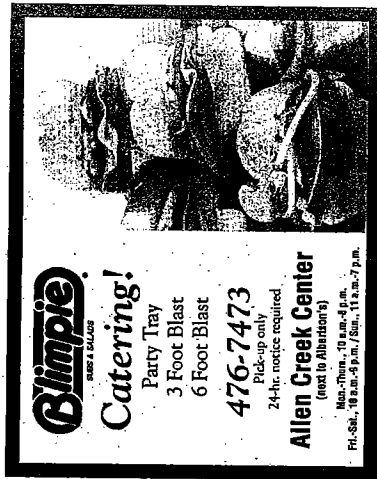

New York-based Human Rights Watch, in an open letter to Secretary of Defense Donald H. Rumsfeld, reported two cases of detainee deaths it said were previously unacknowledged, one of which it said was investigated as a murder.

The U.S. Army's Criminal Investigation Command, later Monday, released a list of eight deaths that had been investigated.

Of those five were previously acknowledged by military officials to The Associated Press. The circumstances of two more seemed to match those described by Human Rights Watch as new. It was unclear whether the eighth has been reported previously.

awaiting final autopsy," the Criminal Investigation Division's statement said. A U.S. defense official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, identified the man as Sher Mohammed Khan and said he died of a heart attack. Human Rights Watch said Khan died Sept. 26 after he was arrested during a raid on his family's home near Khost. His brother was fatally shot by U.S. forces during the raid.

Home sales break record

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sales of previously owned homes in November posted their best month on record as low mortgage rates enticed buyers to live the American dream.

The National Association of Realtors reported Wednesday that sales totaled an all-time monthly high of 6.94 million units, representing a 2.7 percent increase from October's pace.

While some other recent reports raised questions as to whether the high-flying housing market might be losing a bit of altitude, Wednesday's report suggested the sector is still humming along.

U.S. and Iraqi troops begin assault on Mosul

Insurgent-held areas stormed

Associated Press

MOSUL, Iraq — U.S. and Iraqi troops stormed insurgent-held police stations and neighborhoods today, launching an offensive to retake parts of this northern Iraqi city where gunmen staged a mass uprising last week in support of fighters in Fallujah.

Troops secured several police stations by mid-afternoon, meeting "very little resistance," the U.S. military said. Witnesses said insurgents blew up three stations they were holding before abandoning them ahead of the U.S. assault. U.S. warplanes and helicopters hovered over Mosul — Iraq's third largest city, with about 1 million residents — as jet explosions and gunfire were heard. About 1,200 U.S. soldiers were taking part in the offensive to recapture about a dozen police stations abandoned by Iraqi forces in the uprising. Mortars struck two areas

Mosul, wounding one U.S. soldier, the military said.

The uprising swept across Mosul — 225 miles north of Baghdad — amid a wave of violence across north and central Iraq following last week's U.S.-led attack on Fallujah, the insurgents' strongest bastion, west of Baghdad.

In a speech found Monday on the Internet, a speaker said to be Abu Musab al-Zarqawi, the country's most feared terrorist leader, called on his followers to "show" the Americans "with rockets and mortars" because U.S. forces were spread too thin as they seek to "finish off Islam in Fallujah."

The U.S.-Iraqi assault in Mosul aimed to push back the uprising last week by gunmen who stormed police stations, bridges and political offices. The city's police force was overwhelmed and, in many places, failed to even put up a fight. Mosul Police Chief Brig. Gen. Mohammed Khairi Barhawi was fired amid criticism that some police cooperated with insurgents.

Reinforcements of about 300 Today, Mosul's five bridges were closed to start the operation, and American forces began securing police stations in the western part of the city, said U.S. Capt. Angela Bowman, with Task Force Olympia.

November U.S. death toll in Iraq equals worst month

By Robert Burns
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON — Fueled by fierce fighting in Fallujah and insurgents' counterattacks elsewhere in Iraq, the U.S. military death toll for November equaled the highest for any month of the war, according to casualty reports available today.

At least 135 U.S. troops died in November. That is the same number as last April, when the insurgency flared in Fallujah and elsewhere in the so-called Sunni Triangle, where U.S. forces and their Iraqi allies lost a large measure of control.

On Nov. 8, U.S. forces launched an offensive to retake Fallujah, and they were engaged in tough fighting in other cities since then. More than 50 U.S. troops have been killed in Fallujah since then, although the Pentagon has not provided a casualty count for Fallujah for more than a week.

From the viewpoint of the United States and Iraqis who are striving to restore stability, the casualty trend since the interim Iraqi government was put in power June 28 has been troubling. Each month's death toll has been higher than the last, with the single exception of October, when it was 63.

The monthly totals grew from 42 in June to 54 in July to 65 in August and to 80 in September.

The Pentagon's official death toll for Iraq, dating to the start of the war, stood at 1,234 today. That total did not include a Marine killed Monday in Anbar province and a 1st Infantry Division soldier who died of wounds sustained in a roadside bomb attack late Monday night near the town of Alazra.

On Nov. 1 the official death toll stood at 1,211.

Combat injuries increased in November due to the fierce fighting in Fallujah.

Move afoot to remove ban on foreign-born presidents

By Donna Cassata
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The nation's forefathers envisioned a president born in the good ol' U.S. of A.: a red, white and true-blue chief executive for whom the band strikes up "Hail to the Chief."

In 1787 they put it in writing, Article 2, Section 1 of the Constitution: "No person except a natural born citizen ... shall be eligible to the office of president."

More than 200 years later, in a diverse nation with more than 33 million immigrants, the push is on to alter that venerable document and allow naturalized U.S. citizens — Americans like Arnold Schwarzenegger from Thal, Austria, and Jennifer Granholm from Vancouver, B.C. — to become president.

The number of foreign-born in the United States is increasing at a rapid pace: more than 1 million a year between 2000 and 2004, according to a recent study.

Those millions, however, aren't the ones some proponents of the constitutional change have in mind. Think California Gov. Schwarzenegger. Perhaps Michigan Gov. Granholm.

A Web site, Amendment.com, promotes the effort with photos of the Austrian-born Schwarzenegger, and a mention of the Canadian-born soring the Web site have bought ads on California television, hoping to create a groundswell of support.

Several measures have been introduced in Congress, including a joint resolution by Rep. Madeleine Albright, the former secretary of State who was born in Czechoslovakia, recently backed amending the Constitution. "We are a country of immigrants," she said. "I think that it would be not a bad thing to try to figure out how to allow foreign-born people to become president."

GRANHOLM
 Dana Rohrabacher, R-Calif. and Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, which proposes a constitutional amendment that would extend eligibility for the presidency to immigrants who have held U.S. citizenship for at least 20 years.

SCHWARZENEGGER
 Schwarzenegger became a citizen in 1983, Granholm in 1980.

Prohibiting foreign-born Americans from occupying the White House is "hard to justify in a nation where there are so many people who have become naturalized citizens," said Mark V. Tushnet, a professor of constitutional law at the Georgetown University Law Center.

Among those who think it won't happen is Schwarzenegger's wife, Maria Shriver.

Sri Lankan Buddhists open hearts, shrines to Catholic quake victims

By Don Melvin
Cox News Service

KUDA PAYAGALA, Sri Lanka — It was Sunday morning and, in this deeply religious land, almost everyone was in church. But Gerard Perera was on the beach preparing for his day as a fisherman.

"I saw the tide was coming inland," he said, "and I shouted. I ran to the church. My family was in the church, celebrating the Sunday Mass."

All along the road in this area, 35 miles south of Colombo, Sri Lanka's capital, lies evidence of the force of nature's wrath. The earthquake-induced tsunamis that struck this South Asian island last Sunday turned houses to kindling and swept cars and trucks into the forest. Concrete walls were demolished, foundations swept clean of the homes they once supported. The road is littered with the shards of fishing boats.

But whatever the force of those waves, many people in Sri Lanka think faith is just as powerful. Perera believes God alerted him to the coming tsunamis and directed him to warn the others.

Those who were not already in the Santa Maria Catholic Church ran to it when they heard his cries. And as the people of this coastal area huddled inside it, their homes were flattened while the church was spared.

The church withstood the force of the waves but the danger was not over. The water was rising. The parish priest told the congregation to seek higher ground. Go, he said, to the temple.

The people ran from the church, across the road and up the hill to the Buddhist temple. There they were welcomed by the Rev. Malegoda Nanda, the priest who presides over the complex.

"I am ready to give them what they need," he said. Now, he presides with equanimity over 4,000 homeless people, almost all of them Catholic,

And Buddhists around the country have opened their hearts and their shrines to homeless Catholics. Sri Lanka by Portuguese and Dutch colonizers who rarely penetrated the interior of the island. ward the boat. Desperate, he asked if any one had seen his daughter, and a moment later one of the older girls thrust the toddler into his arms. Sanders heaved her into the boat, along with the other small children, as the older ones, joined by his wife and the orphanage staff, clambered aboard on their own.

Crammed with more than 30 people, the dangerously overloaded launch leaped into the lagoon at almost precisely the same moment, Sanders said, that the wall of water overwhelmed the orphanage, swamping its single-story buildings to the rafters. "It was a thunderous roar, and black sea," he said.

The aftermath
The orphan's ordeal did not end when their boat pulled away from the shore.

Not only was water cascading over the lagoon side of the peninsula, but it also was pouring in directly from the mouth of the estuary about two miles away. Sanders feared the converging currents would swamp chapel. Sanders was philosophical about his loss. "If there was anyone who should have got swept away by this tidal wave, it should have been us," he said. "We were eyeball to eyeball

Procrastinating can raise the cost of delivering gifts on time

By Heather Landy
Knight Ridder News Service

With convenience and customer service two major selling points, internet retailers have a lot riding on their ability to ship merchandise on time, especially during the holidays.

That means they need to set conservative ordering deadlines for shoppers who want gifts delivered by Christmas.

There's still time to order online for Christmas, but the longer you procrastinate, the more you can expect to pay for rush shipping. Some sites tack on fees of as much as $15 for next-day service.

Most major shopping sites will allow you to click on "holiday shopping information," "holiday deadlines" or "shipping information" area, with detailed schedules for Christmas orders. If timely delivery is important to you, be sure to examine the schedule closely before buying.

Also, orders for oversize or out-of-stock items often take longer to fill and may not qualify for guaranteed Christmas delivery. For customers who miss the deadlines, many Web sites offer a back-up plan: send a gift card or magazine subscription via e-mail, even on Christmas Day.

Here is a sampling of domestic holiday deadlines and shipping fees advertised this season. Keep in mind that some deadlines may have already passed. (All times are ET.)

• Amazon.com: Dec. 13 for certain oversize items; Dec. 18 for standard shipping on most items; Dec. 20 for holiday guaranteed delivery (standard shipping fee, plus $3.99); Dec. 21 for two-day shipping; Dec. 22 for one-day shipping. For shipping CDs and DVDs, Amazon.com charges $1.99 per shipment and 99 cents per item for standard shipping, $3.49 per shipment and 99 cents per item for two-day shipping and $8.99 per shipment and $1.99 per item for one-day shipping. Fees for other items vary.

• Buy.com: Dec. 18 for budget shipping; Dec. 13 for certain oversize items; Dec. 18 for standard shipping; Dec. 20 by noon for two-day air; Dec. 21 by noon for next-day air. Earlier deadlines apply for items specifying availability times longer than 24 to 48 hours.

• BestBuy.com: Dec. 15 by 11:59 a.m. for major appliances, entertainment furniture and television sets larger than 25 inches; Dec. 19 by 11:59 a.m. for standard shipping on most other items; Dec. 21 by 11:59 a.m. for two-day shipping; Dec. 22 by 11:59 a.m. for next-day shipping; Dec. 23 by 11:59 a.m. for in-store pickup.

• JCrew.com: Dec. 21 by 7 p.m. for regular shipping; Dec. 23 by 11 a.m. for overnight delivery (standard shipping fee plus $12).

• Gap.com: Dec. 20 by noon for standard shipping; Dec. 21 by 11:59 p.m. for express shipping

(standard shipping fee plus $12.95)

• Williams-Sonoma.com: Dec. 20 by 3 p.m. for regular shipping; Dec. 23 by noon CST for rush order (regular shipping fee plus $15).

Man drives self to hospital after being shot in head

ORLAND, Calif. (AP) — Chico police said an Orlando man drove himself to the hospital early Sunday after being shot in the head after a party. Chico Police Sgt. Ford Porter said the man was treated at Enloe Medical Center for a non-life-threatening injury and released.

Porter said officers talked with the 20-year-old man about the shooting, but found him "less than completely cooperative." They said the shooting may have been between vehicles after the victim left the party where he was reportedly involved in an argument.

way to handle public complaints about the pick-up spots is to move the men along with citations and arrests.

Conflicts are happening more often as temporary laborers become a permanent fixture of the U.S. labor market, particularly in construction, landscaping and do-it-yourself home improvement, according to researchers who study the issue.

"The notion of looking for work in this manner annoys a lot of people," said Abel Valenzuela, a University of California Los Angeles sociologist who has surveyed day laborers around the country. "Most cities react negatively."

In Redondo Beach, police said they acted after getting numerous complaints about laborers at the city's two corner gathering spots being drunk, urinating in public, loitering, trespassing, blocking traffic and harassing customers entering businesses.

About 60 day laborers were arrested in a series of stings last month. They were charged with violating an until-now rarely enforced 1987 ordinance that prohibits soliciting employment in a public place. The maximum penalty is a $100 fine and three years' probation.

"We applaud their desire to work, but our job is to maintain order," said City Councilman Gerard Bisignano.

Peterson sentencing a go

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Scott Peterson's defense team appealed for a new jury and change of venue in the penalty phase of his high-profile murder case. Instead, the state Supreme Court cleared the way for the same jurors who convicted Peterson to determine whether he is executed for his crimes.

Peterson was convicted earlier this month of murdering his pregnant wife, Laci, and the fetus she carried. Jurors were scheduled to begin hearing testimony Tuesday as to whether he should get life in prison or death. A judge will issue the final sentence.

Donations stolen from tavern

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — When they think back on it, patrons of the OK Tavern figure putting money for a cancer victim in an aquarium at the bar, where everyone could see it, was a poor idea.

But patrons of the laid-back, blue-collar joint with its two pool tables, where people stop in for a brew and a chat, hadn't given it a thought. Why should they? Everyone knows everyone at the OK. But early Monday someone broke in, scooped up the money that patrons had been raising for a dying woman and made off with it. The burglar took the Toys for Tots donations, too.

Two new shelters planned

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Sacramento religious coalitions plan to open two homeless shelters early next year to accommodate women with mental health problems and a growing number of homeless families.

Loaves and Fishes, which provides day services to the homeless, will open its first overnight shelter in January with 13 beds for chronically homeless women.

Another coalition plans a 14-space "roaming shelter" for homeless families, an initiative based on a national New Jersey-based model called Family Promise.

Sacramento County officials say two new shelters will still leave them short of space for a rising number of homeless residents.

Eric Barlow, a Wyoming

The Mt. Ashland Association recently raised more than $21,000 for the Mt. Ashland Ski Area, said the organization's development director.

"We were already doing the after-school program and we realized there was a greater need to offer this program," said Choy.

original goal by 42 percent. The four-week campaign ended Nov. 4.

The program provides scholarships for children from 45 schools, many disadvantaged youth that would not be able to participate otherwise, Hisatomi said. The campaign will give more than 200 scholarships.

Each season, Mt. Ashland hosts more than 2,500 students in the Mt. Ashland after-school ski and snowboard program from both Jackson and Josephine Counties. Normally, the program would cost more than $100,000.

"We were already doing the after-school program and we realized there was a greater need to offer this program," said Choy.

While the program tries to accommodate as many students as possible with financial and other resources, the funds are limited. Shulters said about eight students at the middle school will be able to participate.

"I think it will help us substantially one away, but it does get pretty tight. Now we can help kids that couldn't participate before. This is just one of the things that we're trying to do."

Hisatomi said, "We know these kids that have expressed interest that are disadvantaged and never thought they could afford to ski or snowboard. There's a lot of kids in our Valley that have never been to Mt. Ashland before, and we felt it was an important thing to provide."

Volunteer campaigns contacted businesses and individuals to raise money and awareness of the program, which is conducted in partnership with area schools and is also intended to enhance attendance and citizenship in schools.

At Ashland Middle School, about 200 students participate in the program.

Body matching Ebersol's son found

De-icing, other factors eyed in fatal jet crash

By John Marshall
The Associated Press

MONTROSE, Colo. — Investigators probing what caused a jet to crash during takeoff want to know whether it was de-iced before it went down, killing NBC Sports chairman Dick Ebersol's youngest son and two other people, a federal official said Tuesday. They have not ruled out other possible factors.

"We do want to look at de-icing because of the weather conditions, but we're not going to just focus on one possibility," Ellen Engleman Connors, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, told CBS' "The Early Show."

Ashland dominates jamboree

Staff Reports

The Ashland High girls' basketball team went 3-0 against Class 3A competition at the Hidden Valley Jamboree on Monday.

The Grizzlies opened with a 17-2 win over Rogue River, then pounded Hidden Valley 18-3 before finishing with a 13-9 win over North Valley.

"We should have been able to win and we did," first-year Grizzly coach Ken Lathen said. "It was the girls' first outing and it was solid. I was pleased. I think they enjoyed themselves and we found that there are some things that we need

Raiders: McCreary nursing injured back

"We have played well enough to sneak in and it just hasn't happened yet."

als, have never done enough to sneak in and it just hasn't happened for us yet," Elliott said.

SOU opens the tournament at 11:15 a.m. Wednesday against National American (20-4) before wrapping up its first day in Pool B against Lee (43-0), the nations lone undefeated team, at 7:30 p.m. The Raiders' final two matches are Thursday against Indiana Southeast (29-5) and No. 8-ranked Concordia (27-3).

The Raiders may be short-handed at nationals. Starting setter Jamie McCreary, who leads the team with 971 assists, has been nursing a bad back all season and it seized up on her again before practice last Tuesday. McCreary will probably test the back Wednesday but if she can't go Elliott will substitute in backup setter Melissa Beard.

"We want Jamie in there, but Melissa's a great setter,"

PAUL ELLIOTT | SOU volleyball head coach

Elliott said. Beard set the first eight matches of the season for SOU and is second on the team with 482 assists.

SOU is led by senior outside hitter Kristin Ferris and junior middle Nicholette Le Bel. Ferris, the Region I Player of the Year, has already become the first Raider ever to compile over 400 kills and digs in a season. Le Bel, also a first-team all-Region I selection, has a team-high 142 blocks and is second on the team with 346 kills.

The Raiders will probably need all their guns blazing in order to advance past pool play. National American is led by junior All-American outside hitter Luciana Camargo and junior regional all-star middle Angela Gregorio. Camargo had 25 kills against the Raiders in a pool play victory during the 2003 national tournament. SOU and Lee have never played, although the Raiders watched Lee win a tournament in Portland.

"They were impressive, but they're no Fresno Pacific Impressive," Elliott said, referring to the top-ranked team in the nation. Lee is led by senior hitter Bojana Vulin, a regional MVP and Brazilian middle Bruna Concordia's (Calif.) top player. Raquel Ferreira, who leads the team with a school-record 466 kills to go with 356 digs.

Tournament results will be posted at www.ncaa.org.

NBA Roundup

Suns blow out Magic

The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The triple-digit scores, and the victories, kept piling up for the Phoenix Suns. The latest was a 121-100 thrumping of the Orlando Magic on Monday night, improving the Suns' record to 18-3, the best start in the 97-year history of the franchise. "Their record is not a fluke," Magic coach Johnny Davis said. "They're that good. They actually put five guys on the floor who are capable of scoring 30 points on any given night." The Suns, the NBA's highest-scoring team by a long shot, kept the throttle down even through Steve Nash's on the bench for long stretches

Pedro: Many top free agents still available

Continued from page 9 The White Sox traded slugger Carlos Lee to Milwaukee for speedy outfielder Scott Podsednik, reliever Luis Vizcaino and a player to be named. Four free-agent agreements also were announced, topped by catcher Mike Matheny's $10.5 million, three-year deal with San Francisco. Right-hander Esteban Yan agreed to a $2.25 million, two-year contract with Anaheim, right-hander Todd Jones finalized a $1.1 million, one-year deal with Florida and outfielder Wil Cordero got a $900,000, one-year contract from the Washington-bound Expos, who also agreed to a minor league deal with outfielder Jeffrey Hammonds. In an agreement awaiting a physical, second baseman Jose Hernandez agreed to a $1.8 million, one-year contract with Cleveland. Late Sunday night, Toronto and free-agent third baseman Corey Koskie reached preliminary agreement on a $17 million, three-year contract.

As teams headed home, many top free agents remained on the market, including Carlos Beltrán, Adrian Beltre, Magglio Ordonez, Derek Lowe, Eric Milton, Jason Varitek, Orlando Cabrera, J.D. Drew, Edgar Renteria and Moises Alou. Among the deals awaiting completion were Carl Pavano's four-year contract with the Yankees, a deal worth about $9 million, and David Wells' two-year agreement with Boston. Minaya expressed confidence about the negotiations with Martinez, but wouldn't detail the discussions. "The good news is that we're still in dialogue," Minaya said. "Every day that goes by and we are having dialogue is a good day." Minaya then returned to New York, and the sides will work by telephone to finalize the contract language. Cozza did not want to comment on the talks. Martinez helped pitch Boston to its first World Series title since 1918, but Red Sox general manager Theo Epstein said he refused to increase the team's offer in the past two days. "We wish Pedro nothing but the best going forward both on the field and off the field," Boston owner John Henry said in an e-mail. "He pitched with every ounce of his being for the Red Sox over the course of 216 games. Some of those performances were among the most memorable in Red Sox history. Who will ever forget the 1999 All-Star game? He has earned everything that he has accomplished, including his World Series ring and his reputation as one of the greatest who ever lived." Martinez, 33, must pass a physical before the Mets complete the deal. He would join a rotation that includes two-time Cy Young winner Tom Glavine, Kris Benson, Steve Trachsel and Victor Zambrano. The Mets have faded badly since losing to the Yankees in the 2000 World Series, finishing last in the NL East in 2002 and 2003, then going 71-91 last season.

Appeal in Ukraine rejected by officials

By Aleksandar Vasovic
The Associated Press

KIEV, Ukraine — Election officials rejected Prime Minister Viktor Yanukovich's voluminous appeal against results showing he lost this week's presidential revote today, saying he had not proved there were any mass violations, a commission member said.

Yanukovich's campaign vowed to take their appeal to the Supreme Court. The prime minister has refused to accept results showing a solid victory for opposition leader Viktor Yushchenko in Sunday's vote. That vote was a repeat of a Nov. 21 race between the two men in which Yanukovich's victory was thrown out by the Supreme Court.

lators" and could not "influence or effect the results of the vote," said Marina Stavruyehuk, a Central Election Commission reading from the preliminary decision, which still must be approved by all members — though it was unlikely to change.

The court by the commission showed Yushchenko winning over Yanukovich with a margin of some 2.3 million votes, but the results cannot be deemed final until all appeals are exhausted.

Yanukovich's campaign manager Taras Chornovyi said they would now fight the decision before Ukraine's highest court, but he was pessimistic. "I could forecast the decision of the Supreme Court, but it would be wrong to take Yanukovich's side," he said.

Washington certifies Democrat as winner of governor's race

By David Annonius
The Associated Press

OLYMPIA, Wash. — After three vote tallies and 58 days of waiting, Democrat Christine Gregoire was declared Washington's governor-elect this morning. But her Republican rival did not concede and wants a new election.

A revote would have to be approved by the Democrat-controlled state Legislature. "The uncertainty surrounding this election process isn't just bad for you and me — it is bad for the entire state," Rossi said, reading from a letter he said he sent to Gregoire. "People need to know for sure that the next governor actually won the election."

An unprecedented statewide recount had put Gregoire ahead for the first time, by just 23 votes out of more than 2.6 million cast.

Bell ringer faces felony charges

Temporary Salvation Army employee was pictured in a Mail Tribune story last week

By JOY IONEL ALECCIA
Mail Tribune Staff

A Medford Salvation Army bell ringer accused of robbing a Grants Pass Wal-Mart store may continue to solicit charity funds during the holidays, officials said.

Robert William Johnson, 51, was hosting a Salvation Army red kettle Monday outside the J.C. Penney store at the Rogue Valley Mall, said Mei, Mary Sar Samuelson.

That's despite felony indictment charges of first-degree theft and third-degree robbery, as well as third-degree theft and fourth-degree assault charges, all stemming from a July 26 incident at the Grants Pass Wal-Mart store.

Grants Pass detectives didn't return calls seeking details about the crime. Johnson is set for trial in January.

"What I want to say is we are going to give people a chance," said Samuelson. "We're very serious with the public trust, but our job is also to create change in people's lives."

Salvation Army officials did not know about Johnson's pending charges when they hired him, along with 20 other bell ringers, for a six-week holiday stint, Samuelson said.

Southern Oregon employees are referred to Portland Cascade Division headquarters for background checks, Samuelson said. But officials there said bell ringers typically aren't reviewed.

"The position is so short-spaced it doesn't require us to do so," said Kim Johnson, payroll supervisor.

An application for full-time employment asks whether a candidate has been convicted of a felony in the past seven years. The application doesn't mention pending cases, she said.

"That's the key word — conviction," she said. Johnson has no outstanding felony convictions, state court records show. Felony charges of possession, manufacture and delivery of a controlled substance were dismissed in 1998 after he completed drug treatment.

Johnson's relatives contacted Salvation Army officials and media outlets to notify them of Johnson's alleged crimes after his photograph appeared in a Mail Tribune story last week.

Johnson, who is living at the Salvation Army's Hope House transitional center, admitted he "had something pending," Samuelson said. Johnson declined to discuss the incident Monday.

Money tossed in Salvation Army kettles totals about $100,000 each year here, officials said. The funds are in no danger of theft, whatever the background of the bell ringers, Samuelson said.

The trademark red urns are constructed to prevent tampering and they're padlocked shut, he said. Ringers are not allowed to take kettles on breaks and they're all picked up at night by Salvation Army staff.

"It remains to be seen" whether Johnson will retain his post as bell ringer, Samuelson said.

But officials in Portland said they might recommend reassigning him to a task that doesn't involve money.

"We would be extremely wor-

Central Point police look for teen runaway

Central Point police are looking for a teenage girl who ran away from a foster care home last summer and has not contacted her family since then.

Police believe Schnee Bedford, 17, was living in the Sacramento area after leaving the Central Point foster care home July 5.

On Nov. 9, however, they received an unconfirmed sighting of Bedford in the area of West 12th Street in Medford, and police and family members want to re-establish contact with her.

Police on Monday issued a missing person flyer in hopes of getting public assistance in locating Bedford.

"Right now, we're just concerned about her," Central Point police Sgt. Chuck Newell said Monday. "It hasn't reached the state of missing-endangered yet. We just want to check on her welfare."

Police and Bedford's family had expected contact over the

She has tattoos on both shoulders. The tattoo on her right shoulder is of two hearts and a banner with an unknown woman's name. Police do not know what the tattoo on her left shoulder looks like.

Bedford speaks fluent Spanish. Newell said he did not know Bedford was in foster care. Anyone with information about Bedford's whereabouts should call Central Point Police at 664-5578.

Costco chips in with goodies for U.S. troops in Baghdad

A local philanthropic and social group has teamed up with Medford's Costco employees to support a group of U.S. soldiers in Baghdad. While asked, soldiers provided a list of modest items that would make a big difference in their daily lives.

The local chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, an international women's social and philanthropic organization, and individual members have since sent packages.

Costco was asked to participate and employees chipped in to ship more than 80 pounds of chips, popcorn, licorice, magazines, cookies, nuts and other comfort items. The shipment should arrive by Christmas.

There were stories of hope and survival. A 13-year-old girl survived drifting at sea for two days off the Indian island of Car Nicobar, clinging to a door, a tree and a sack. In Sri Lanka, Dayalan Sanders, a Sri Lankan-born U.S. citizen, rescued the 28 orphans in his care by reacting quickly. Spotting the tsunami, he and his wife corralled the children onto a motorboat and outran the waves, seconds before their orphanage was crushed in a 30-foot wall of water.

In the 12 countries affected by the tragedy from East Africa to southern Asia, there was little chance of finding more survivors. Tens of thousands of people were missing. Health ministry officials said 80 percent of western Sumatra was destroyed. More than 45,000 people have been killed on the island, and a U.N. official said the death toll there could reach 80,000.

Sri Lanka on Wednesday listed more than 22,400 people dead, India close to 7,000 — with 8,000 missing and feared dead, including many on the

The base's headquarters and adjacent residences were flattened by the waves, and 102 military personnel were killed, officials said. The control tower toppled from its perch, and the runway, now lit by kerosene landing lights, is cracked and broken.

The islanders who stumbled out of the jungle Wednesday are camping out in the buildings that remain, giving them the look of crowded rail stations.
