OPUC are you serious about this?

As a contested case party in the potential B2H line, I have had my faith shaken in regulatory agencies that should be looking out for the good of all, not just the corporate good. And now this! Lands should only be taken as a last resort, with ample notice and ample access to legal advice for those affected, much less the potential environmental affects of this.

Please think of the lives changed and families affected by this change in policy if implemented. Existing regulations should be followed, not over-ridden. Shame on you for even thinking this is ok. Be a good person, not a corporate shill.

Thank you.
