To ensure all existing and potential customers receive the best possible wireless service, when service issues are identified U.S. Cellular will:

- Inspect the customer’s handset to ensure it is functioning properly and ensure that it has been properly programmed. If necessary, handsets under warranty will be promptly replaced or repaired. In circumstances where the phone is no longer under warranty, the customer will be made aware of his/her handset replacement options, i.e. repair, purchase of a new or used handset. Customer will also be advised of available modifications his equipment that may allow the phone to successfully connect to U.S. Cellular’s network.
- Inspect elements of U.S. Cellular’s network to ensure that it is functioning as designed. If necessary, adjustments and repairs will be made as soon as practical and in a manner that has the least impact upon the customer. Perform drive testing in the effected area to determine the availability and strength of wireless signals. Also, determine if nearest cell site can be modified to serve the effected area.

- In certain situations, customers requesting service may reside outside of U.S. Cellular's CGSA but within U.S. Cellular's ETC area. To ensure that customers in this situation can receive wireless service, U.S. Cellular has in place comprehensive roaming agreements with other wireless carriers and "U.S. Cellular" service will be provided via other carriers' networks at no additional cost to the customer. However, in some instances no cellular coverage from any cellular network is available.
- U.S. Cellular continuously monitors its network for trouble spots, including areas where cellular signals are weak, non-existent or lacking due to capacity issues. Once a trouble spot is identified, U.S. Cellular explores possible solutions and works to implement solution(s) as soon as practical.

U.S. Cellular®
Oregon ETC Recertification
Exhibit 2.1.B.1

In 2006, a Sprint customer from California approached USCC via the Oregon ETC commission about extending service to his vacation home in Central Oregon (Camp Sherman) located at 44°26'27" N 121°37'48" W.

Due to USCC's ETC status in the state of Oregon, we are obligated to perform a six step process for determining if we can meet the customer's needs.

The six step process is listed below along with my comments on how we (the SPE/RFE team) went about determining if anything could be done for this customer.

- (1) Determine whether the customer's equipment can be modified or replaced to provide acceptable service.
  - This particular customer has a standard hand held cell phone. No modifications were possible to increase the likelihood of receiving acceptable service at his home.
- (2) Determine whether a roof-mounted antenna or other network equipment can be deployed at the premises to provide service.
  - During drive testing in the area of this customers home, no useable signal was detected that could be used with either a roof mounted antenna, a yagi antenna, or a bi-directional amplifier located at his home.
- (3) Determine whether adjustments at the nearest cell site can be made to provide service.
  - RF Engineering conducted a detailed study with Planet EV involving several existing sites and due to terrain features in the area could not provide any extra signal to the customer's home.

(4) Determine whether there are any other adjustments to network or customer facilities that can be made to provide service.

- We were unable to find any adjustments either parameter based, or physical to any cell site that could positively impact this customer at his home.

(5) explore the possibility of offering resold service.

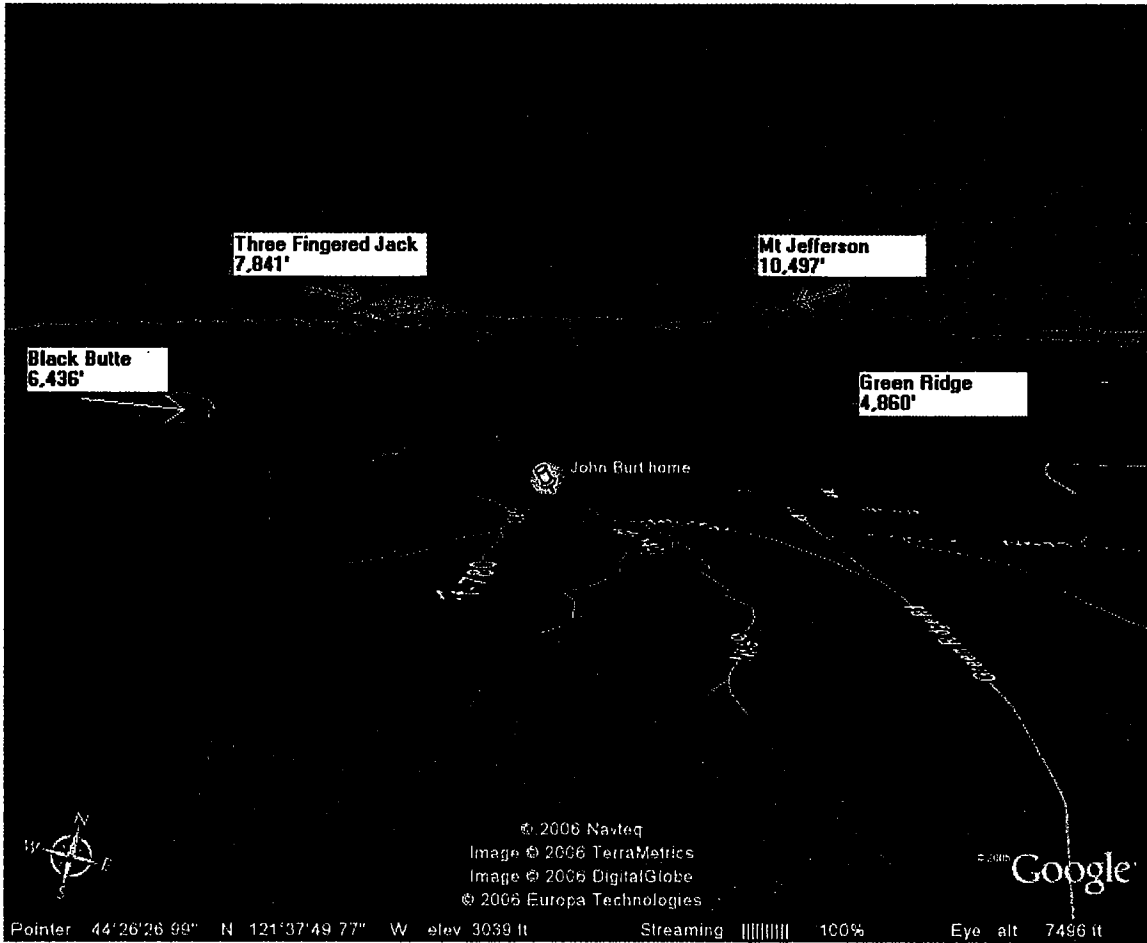

- No competitors signal was detected during drive testing, and no land line service currently exists at this customer's home. We did however offer the customer in our letter to him that if he could find any acceptable service in the area to meet his needs we (USCC) would offer it to him in a re-sale package.

(6) determine whether an additional cell site, a cell-extender, or repeater can be employed, or can be constructed to provide service.

- RF Engineering looked at the possibility of using a repeater to cover the customer's home with no success. Drive testing confirmed that there was not sufficient signal strength anywhere in the area to support the minimum requirements of the repeater.
- RF Engineering concluded that the only acceptable solution for this customer was the addition of a new cell site which is not economically feasible at this time.

If none of these methods work, USCC will notify the customer and provide the ETC Commission with an annual report of how many requests for service it could not fill.

The next few pages include the final report that we sent to our legal department and is what they used to draft a letter to the customer and the ETC commission.

This is the area where the customer lives. This particular angle shows the terrain difficulties involved with providing service to this customer.

This picture is from Planet EV and shows the area where the customer lives, the existing service, and clearly shows the service null caused by terrain around the valley where the customer's home is located.

This is the actual drive test data collected by the SPE on one of the many trips to the Camp Sherman area while investigating this case and exhausting the six step process. Note that there are not any dots around the customer's house. This is because the test equipment detected no signal at all.

The following is the verbiage from the final report to our legal department regarding this case, and is what they used to draft a letter to the customer.

Stephanie,

After meeting with the teams and doing some detailed analysis of the area around Mr. Burt's home, we have come to the conclusion that little can be done to serve him, short of building a new site in the area (this would be about a $350,000 investment). The first attachment shows the area surrounding Mr. Burt's home. As you can see, he lives in a canyon surrounded by 4500'+ hills and 6000'+ mountains. This terrain prevents our current signal from penetrating into the Camp Sherman area. The second attachment depicts this. It shows our current coverage, as well as Mr. Burt's home and the terrain features in the area. The green color on the map represents in-building coverage, blue represents in-vehicle coverage, purple represents street level coverage, and yellow represents extreme rural coverage (generally not considered to be useable by a hand-held cell phone). The areas that are white have no service.

The third attachment is actual drive test data from our performance engineer showing the area around Mr. Burt's home. The color scheme is the same as the previous map, with the exception that the block dots represent un-useable signal. The absence of dots near Mr. Burt's home shows that the signal level was below the sensitivity of the receiver used during drive testing.

In a previous e-mail there was mention of adding a sector to an existing site (Five Mile Butte) in attempt to get service into the area. Attachment #2 shows that there is currently a sector on that site pointing directly at Mr. Burt's home. Adding a third sector to this site will not help. Also mentioned earlier (in the e-mail below) was the possibility of using a repeater. After measuring the signal level in the area, we determined that the signal level was too weak to allow a repeater to perform. The minimum preferred signal level for a repeater to function properly is around -85dBm. The strongest signal level we found in the area was below -97dBm.

I hope this answers any questions you or Mr. Burt may have. If you need any additional information from Engineering, please call either Troy or myself.

Thanks,
Krista Pauly & Troy Baker

And finally, the following is the actual letter sent to the customer, along with comments from the lawyer.

Stephanie:

Here is a revised letter for Mr. Burt.

In your emails to me, the maps showing propagation were not attached. I don't need them and do not advise providing them to Mr. Burt. If our letter to him is not sufficient, that material will be useful in response to further commission inquiries, however my sense is that you ought not provide it to a customer at this time - as in the future the state may start expecting you to do that for every customer request.

I hope that you find this to be useful. Since Mr. Burt has no wireline service at that location, it may be that he'll push this with the state commission, and they'll have to decide how to get him service. Since USCC is not the carrier of last resort, chances are the state will require the ILEC to do it - and of course the ILEC will be handsomely compensated by the state and federal universal service funds for extending a line out there.

Depending upon Mr. Burt's next move, this will be interesting.

David

Dear Mr. Burt:

In response to your request for service, we have sent a technician out to your residence at [address] to assess how we can extend service to you. At this time, our company has no network coverage close enough to your residence such that service can be provided with our facilities, short of constructing a new cell site. The cost of constructing a new cell site to serve your residence is not economically feasible unless you wish to contribute a substantial portion of the cost of extending facilities, which we estimate will total over $350,000.

As part of our technician's analysis of our current service coverage in your area, we determined that your house is in a canyon surrounded by mountains ranging from roughly 4500 to 6000 feet. The company performed a computer-generated signal propagation analysis and conducted a "drive test" in your area to measure actual signal strength. We have concluded that the difficult terrain prevents our signal from penetrating into the area where you request service and that there is not sufficient signal strength within range that would enable the deployment of a "repeater" that will pick up our existing signal and relay it to your home. We have also determined that various network adjustments such as, for example, adding a sector to the nearest tower, will not resolve the issue.

Even though we have no immediate plans to construct a cell site serving your area, we keep all customer requests for service on file so as to enable us to extend our network out to requesting customer at the earliest possible time.

If you want to receive telephone service from our company, the FCC's rules and the rules adopted by the Oregon Public Utility Commission do permit us to resell service of another carrier to you. Our technician's test measurements did not reveal the presence of any other wireless service provider that has usable signal at your residence. If for any reason you are aware of service being available from another wireless carrier, and you do not wish to be a customer of that carrier, we would be pleased to be your provider, however your underlying service would come from the other carrier's wireless network.

If your residence receives telephone service from a wireline telephone company, and you do not wish to be a customer of that carrier, we will attempt to enter into a resale arrangement with that carrier so as to provide service to your residence.

We are very sorry that we cannot get our facilities out to your residence immediately, however we are building our network out to rural areas in Oregon as quickly as we can. It is a big state and it takes time.

We trust that this has been responsive to your inquiry. Should you have any questions, please contact me directly.

wireless service for everyone U.S. Cellular Exhibit 4.2.A Basic Lifeline Plans

Plan Overview

U.S. Cellular® participates in the Lifeline and Link-Up programs which provide affordable telecommunications services in markets in which U.S. Cellular is designated as an Eligible Telecommunications Carrier (ETC).

- Lifeline Assistance Program provides discounts on monthly wireless service. Eligibility to receive Lifeline discounts is determined by each ETC state.

Plan Qualifications

Eligibility for Lifeline and Link-Up varies by state. If you reside in a state that has its own Lifeline discount program and meet its eligibility requirements, you qualify for federal Lifeline and Link-Up support.

In states and U.S. territories that do not provide state-funded discounts, you are eligible for Lifeline discounts if you participate in one of the following programs:

- Federal Public Housing Assistance (FPHA) or Section 8
- Food Stamps
- Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP)
- Medicaid
- National School Lunch Program (free lunch program)
- Supplemental Security Income (SSI)
- Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF)

In addition, you may be eligible if your household income is at or below 135% of the federal poverty guidelines. If you qualify for Lifeline discounts based on the income guidelines, you will need to verify with current documentation.

Windwear travels one block with new owner

By KIRBY NEUMANN-REAR
News Editor

There's been a shift in the Windwear, and a Duck is about to take over. Beth Orgain, 59, of Collins, owner of Cascade Travel, is the new owner of Windwear, which Beth Orgain started in 1997 at Fifth and Oak streets.

Collins moved Windwear to the front part of her storefront a week ago. Cascade Travel continues its operations in the back half of the building, 409 Oak.

"The travel business exists well with retail, as these days most travel business is done over the phone, and clients who do come in are accustomed to office hours," she said. "I've been doing travel for 30 years and have no plans to stop doing travel, but I wanted to learn something new," Collins said.

Sold Orgain, "I wanted to simplify and spend more time with my daughters, who are in need of help." Orgain will continue to operate Columbia Gorge Tuxedos, at 113 Sherman, phone 386-6691.

Collins will keep most of the clothing lines. Windwear is known for including dance gear and accessories.

"I've always shopped there," said Collins, adding that she plans to sell wrinkle-resistant, easily packed travel wear, to go with the luggage she has sold for several years through Cascade Travel.

Spring growth expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economic growth clocked in at a 2.6 percent pace in the spring, a weaker performance than previously estimated and a fresh sign the economy has shifted into a lower gear.

The latest reading of the gross domestic product, released today by the Commerce Department, was slower than the 2.9 percent figure esti-economic news, the government said new orders for durable goods last week dropped 1.9 percent, close to economic forecasts.

But the Dow Jones Industrial Average traded second highest close in six years ago, they grew more optimistic about the economy — while losing altitude — will mean a rebounding back to more normal and sustainable growth.

Dow marks recovery milestone

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average reached a milestone in Wall Street's recovery from nearly seven years of corporate upheaval, economic recession and the impact of terrorism today, briefly trading above its record high close of 11,722.89 set back on Jan. 14, 2000.

Lifted by growing optimism about stable interest rates and a soft landing for the economy, the Dow rose to 11,724.88 in morning trading, before slipping back to 11,701.95.

It faced one more milestone, its intraday high of 11,750.28, before it could move into uncharted territory.

Wall Street's other two widely followed indexes, the Standard & Poor's 500 and the Nasdaq composite, lagged the Dow although they also reached closing highs around the same time.

own-business books, but after two years of retail, we knew that we needed outside help," said Pat Budeslich, who runs the store full time while her husband — a tournament bass fisherman — also works as a Pacific Power lineman.

Lisa (Woodruff) from Logan's Design said, "You've got to contact the Small Business Development Center (at Rogue Community College) and take Roger Harding's class," Pat Budeslich explained.

Today, with two years of Harding's classes under their belts, the couple have signed up to continue with Harding's alumni course.

"His classes are absolutely wonderful. I think he's the reason we're still in business," Budeslich said. "I would recommend anyone in business to take his class. He brings out a lot of points people don't realize."

Harding, with more than 25 years of experience in business and marketing-related ventures, begins his 18th year teaching the nine-month class Monday night.

Classes meet once a month on Monday nights from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Grants Pass Small Business Center at Fourth and H streets in Grants Pass. He also teaches classes in Medford.

Harding still has room for as many as 15 non-competing businesses for his beginning class.

Eight miners die, 15 missing after gas explosion in Poland

BRUDA SLAS, A.P. — A gas explosion in a coal mine in southern Poland on Tuesday killed eight miners and left 15 others missing, officials said.

The explosion occurred at the Mysiowice mine, about 100 miles from Warsaw. It happened at 11:30 a.m. local time, according to the company's safety director, Andrzej Pawlaczek.

The blast was heard in the nearby town of Bruda. It caused a fire in the mine's main shaft, which is 1,200 meters deep. The fire was quickly extinguished, but the explosion had already caused significant damage to the mine's infrastructure.

Rescue workers were working to bring the missing miners to the surface. They were using a rescue system that involves lowering a basket to the mine's shaft. The rescue operation is expected to take several days.

The cause of the explosion is still under investigation. It is believed that a gas leak was the primary cause, but the exact circumstances are not yet clear.

One of the killed miners, 37-year-old Piotr Szymanski, was found in a basket lowered to the mine's shaft. He had been working in the main shaft for several hours before the explosion.

The other seven killed miners were found in various parts of the mine. Their bodies were recovered by rescue workers using the same basket system.

The 15 missing miners are still being searched for. They are believed to be in the lower levels of the mine, where the explosion was most powerful.

The Polish government has ordered a full-scale investigation into the cause of the explosion. It has also ordered a temporary closure of the Mysiowice mine until the investigation is complete.

The tragedy has caused a wave of grief in Poland. Many people are mourning the loss of the miners, who are seen as the backbone of the country's economy.

Investigators search for evidence for a second day on the site of a vehicle in which prominent Syrian Christian politician Pierre Gemayel was assassinated in Beirut, Lebanon.

Syria: Tribunal should handle Beirut Lebanon assassination

UNITED NATIONS — A tribunal should handle the assassination of a prominent Syrian Christian politician in Beirut, Lebanon, according to a report from the United Nations Security Council.

The report, issued on Tuesday, calls for an international tribunal to investigate the assassination of Pierre Gemayel, a member of the prominent Gemayel family. Gemayel was killed in a car bombing in Beirut in 2005.

The Security Council report says that the assassination was a "clear and deliberate act" and that it was "likely to have been planned and executed by individuals or groups acting in coordination with the Syrian government."

The report also says that the Syrian government has "failed to provide any credible evidence" to support its claim that it was not involved in the assassination.

The Security Council is calling for an international tribunal to be established to investigate the assassination. It says that such a tribunal would be "more impartial and more effective" than a national investigation.

The report also calls for the Syrian government to cooperate fully with the investigation and to provide access to all relevant information.

The assassination of Pierre Gemayel is one of the many acts of violence that have plagued Lebanon since the end of the civil war in 1990. It is seen as a major setback for the country's efforts to achieve stability and reconciliation.
