Analysis

Background

On November 2, 2023, PGE filed a revision to Schedule 115, Low-Income Assistance, to reflect the sunsetting of a temporary increase in collections as directed by HB 2739. HB 2739 temporarily increased the amount of funds collected for low-income electric bill payment and crisis assistance by $10 million each year for two years, beginning January 1, 2022. This brought the total amount collected for low-income assistance to $30 million per year. Historically, PGE and Pacific Power (PacifiCorp) have worked together to establish each company's share of the total requirement. Based on the size of each company's customer base, PGE collects sixty percent, while PacifiCorp collects 40 percent. The increase in collecting approximately $12 million. As of January 2, 2024, the statewide annual collection requirement will revert to a minimum of $20 million,² and PGE's 60 percent share will revert to at least $12 million. The revised Schedule 115 details the updated rates that will be reflected on customers' bills.

In accordance with ORS 757.698(1)(c), customers may not be charged more than $500 per month per site for low-income bill payment assistance.³ This effectively limits collections from non-residential customers and necessitates separate rates be applied to residential and non-residential schedules for low-income bill payment assistance. As a result, Schedule 115 is structured with a per kWh price for non-residential customers and a flat fee for residential customers.

Staff Analysis

All non-residential customers will pay 0.076¢ per kWh for the first 657,895 kWh of usage. Multiplying the rate of 0.076¢ by 657,895 kWh yields the $500 per month per site limit. The residential flat fee is based on average residential monthly usage, which was revised from 1000 kWh to 795 kWh, following Docket No. UE 416, Order No. 23-386. Multiplying the average residential usage of 795 kWh by 0.076¢ results in the residential flat fee of $0.60. PGE estimates that approximately 940,000 Retail Customers will be impacted by this 0.2 percent decrease in 2024. A typical Residential Customer will see a monthly bill decrease of $0.44 or 0.3 percent.

Staff reviewed PGE's workpapers and was able to confirm that the updated rates will result in collections of at least $12 million. Staff also reviewed PacifiCorp's filing, ADV 1555/Advice No. 23-020, and can confirm that PacifiCorp will collect the remaining $8 million, bringing the total amount collected past the $20 million minimum required by ORS 727.698. All funds collected under this schedule will be remitted to Oregon Housing and Community Services.

Conclusion

After reviewing ORS 757.698 and PGE's proposed revisions to Schedule 115, Staff concludes that the proposed tariff complies with the sunsetting of the temporary increase in collections as outlined in ORS 757.698. Staff therefore recommends that the Commission allow the proposed rates to take effect.

PROPOSED COMMISSION MOTION:

Approve PGE's proposed revisions to Schedule 115, Low-Income Assistance, effective for service rendered on or after January 1, 2024.
