10	The question posed by the court in	Drever v PGE 341 Or 262 142 P3c

12 The question posed by the court in Dreyer v. PGE, 341 Or 262, 142 P3d 1010 13 (2006)—as to what remedy the Public Utility Commission of Oregon (the "Commission") can 14 provide to PGE's ratepayers for its violation of ORS 757.355—raises issues of critical 15 importance to Oregon's utilities and their customers. Therefore Idaho Power Company 16 ("Idaho Power") is pleased to have this opportunity to file these comments.

17 Idaho Power understands that the decision in Dreyer requires the Commission to 18 reconsider its ability to issue refunds when one of its rate orders has been invalidated upon 19 appeal. However, Dreyer does not require the Commission to abandon the fundamental 20 ratemaking principles to which it has historically adhered. On the contrary, Idaho Power 21 believes that the analysis contained in PacifiCorp's Opening Brief in Phase II ("PacifiCorp 22 Brief") correctly harmonizes the Dreyer decision with the relevant statutory framework, and 23 this Commission's long-standing regulatory policies. In particular, Idaho Power agrees with 24 PacifiCorp that this Commission has no independent authority to order refunds to PGE's 25 customers, see PacifiCorp Brief at 9-10, and can only do so upon court order after judicial 26 review under ORS 183.486. See PacifiCorp Brief at 6. Moreover, the rule against

McDowell & Rackner PC 520 SW Sixth Avenue, Suite 830 Portland, OR 97204 retroactive ratemaking prevents the courts from ordering such a refund unless PGE had adequate notice that the rates were subject to change. See PacifiCorp Brief at 7, 9.

3 For these reasons Idaho Power urges the Commission to adopt the analysis 4 presented by PacifiCorp.
