Re: Supplement to Tariff Advice No. 17-08
Update to Rule F, Service Connection and Discontinuance to implement a Winter
Protection Program

Attention Filing Center:

On October 13, 2017, Idaho Power Company (“Idaho Power” or “Company”) submitted Advice No. 17-08 with proposed changes to Rule F, Service Connection and Discontinuance, to implement a Winter Protection Program in its Oregon service area. After the filing was made, the Public Utility Company of Oregon Staff and the Company discussed aligning the proposed temperature thresholds language in Rule F with the language in OAR 860-021-0407. As a result of these discussions, the Company submits this supplemental filing to amend the proposed temperature threshold language in its Rule F.

The temperature threshold established in Section 1 of OAR 860-021-0407 is any day a high temperature of less than 32 degrees Fahrenheit is forecast. In Tariff Advice No. 17-08, Idaho Power had proposed to establish a threshold as the forecasted daytime highs not exceeding 25 degrees Fahrenheit for three consecutive week days. Because the language from OAR 860-021-0407 establishes a temperature threshold based on the forecast on any day, Idaho Power submits this filing to amend its proposed Rule F and change the proposed temperature threshold from “three consecutive days” to “any day”.

The modified Second Revised Sheet No. F-1 and the original Sheet No. F-2 are attached.
